

SKOWHEGAN, ME PRINT- 1892 This 1892 historic print, available in two sizes, has been digitally refreshed and professionally printed using Epson Ultra-Chrome Archival Ink on heavy photographic paper. The structures and features on this wonderful map were drawn to resemble 3-D. The structures look like they would have looked over 120 years ago. The cartographer included trees on the landscape and water features in the river. The mountains in the background and many of the structures are labeled with numbers and indexed for identification. This map was used as an advertisement for the Hotel Heselton which was located where the Skowhegan Municipal Building now stands. The literature describes the many amenities provided by the hotel including a barber shop, electric lights, steam heat, bath rooms, billiard parlor, telegraph and telephone office, and the purest of spring water all for $2.00 a day.
